

LODI SOLAR DISCOVERY FAIRE - OCTOBER 25, 2008

Woodbridge School hosts first Lodi Solar Discovery Faire

Education Energized
by the Sun

Above: Alexandria Davis, 7, listen to music from a miniature, solar-powered piano during the first Solar Faire at Woodbridge School on Saturday. The fair, an offshoot of the annual Solar Schoolhouse Olympics held at Lodi High, leaves competition behind and focuses on teaching the uses of solar energy through crafts and activities, including solar cooking, building solar cars and whirlygigs, solar wood etching, and more, all provided by Lodi Electric. Left: Josh Galtman, 13, harnesses the energy of the sun to etch his initials into a block of wood during the fair.
